OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

Thursday - 27 July 1972

25X1

1. [REDACTED] Rady Johnson, Assistant Secretary of Defense (Legislative Affairs), called to ask if we were briefing Fulbright on the dike problem. I said it was scheduled for this afternoon and he could tell Laird we were taking care of it.

Johnson said Defense had decided that the Nelson amendment regarding weather manipulation was "undebatable" and they were taking no position on it vis-a-vis the Armed Services Committee.

I asked Johnson what they were doing about the Symington amendment (Laos ceiling). He said Fred Buzhardt, Defense General Counsel, was trying to work out some compromise language they hoped we could all live with. I said I thought this might create problems and we much preferred a major effort to knock out the whole thing in conference. Johnson said this would be preferable, but he wasn't sure it was feasible. I said, nevertheless, I thought we ought to pull out all the stops, and go the compromise language route, only as a last resort.
